I wished for a new friend who embodied the best qualities of my three friends: Sai's mischievous nature, Pradeep's caring and sharing personality, and Prici's divine moments.

I wondered if it was possible to find someone like that, someone who would bring more joy and color to my life. Nevertheless, I cherished and adored my three friends for their unique qualities. I asked Jesus if it was possible for someone new to come into my life after Sai and Pradeep. I hoped that it would happen, and I specifically wanted a guy as my new friend. Even though I playfully named him Mr. X, Mr. Y, and Mr. Z, I eagerly anticipated meeting this person. I decided that I wouldn't share any details about him with anyone unless I found him. Ultimately, it would be my choice based on the qualities I desired. I may choose to have such a friend or not, but either way, I already have the best friends I could ask for.

Just a new friend…who was that?…
